

WORK SKILLS FOR LIFE

OVERVIEW

This short course is designed to support post-school-age students with permanent intellectual disabilities. Students are supported to experience many opportunities to boost their confidence, learn new skills, meet new people, and engage with education and community. Students experience a variety of at least three different vocational tasters and discover more about the world of work. Students engage in many practical hands-on activities with sessions with qualified industry specialists and work together to achieve team projects throughout the year. They also complete industry visits to discover more about their chosen fields of work. Vocational areas are chosen by the students as a group and have in the past included hospitality, horticulture, floristry, retail, and art.
